

City-Living A Threat To Nation?

Scientist Believes U.S. Must Spread Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — A communications pioneer told the nation's governors today that unless the present day trend toward urban living is reversed, America's survival could be in jeopardy by the year 1980.

Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, president of CBS Laboratories, said the trend toward urbanization is compounding the problems of pollution, crime and drug addiction, and contributing to increasingly intolerable living conditions.

He spoke before the National Governors Council on Science and Technology here. The two-day session will end Tuesday.

JAMMED TOGETHER

Goldmark, who invented the long-playing record and spearheaded the development of color television, said more than 90 per cent of the nation's population is concentrated in less than eight per cent of the land.

He urged the government, along with science and industry, to work toward inducing the next 100 million Americans to make better use of the land than the present 200 million have.

"Communications technology has been developed to the point where all the inventions needed already exist to enable people to live and work at great distances from each other," he said.

"We don't need more inventions, but systems engineering applied to the solution of this problem," the Stamford, Conn., resident said.

Goldmark suggested existing communities should be used as nuclei for the future de-urbanized society. He said such a society would erase major transportation headaches, improve living and educational opportunities, reduce crime and racial problems and lower living costs.

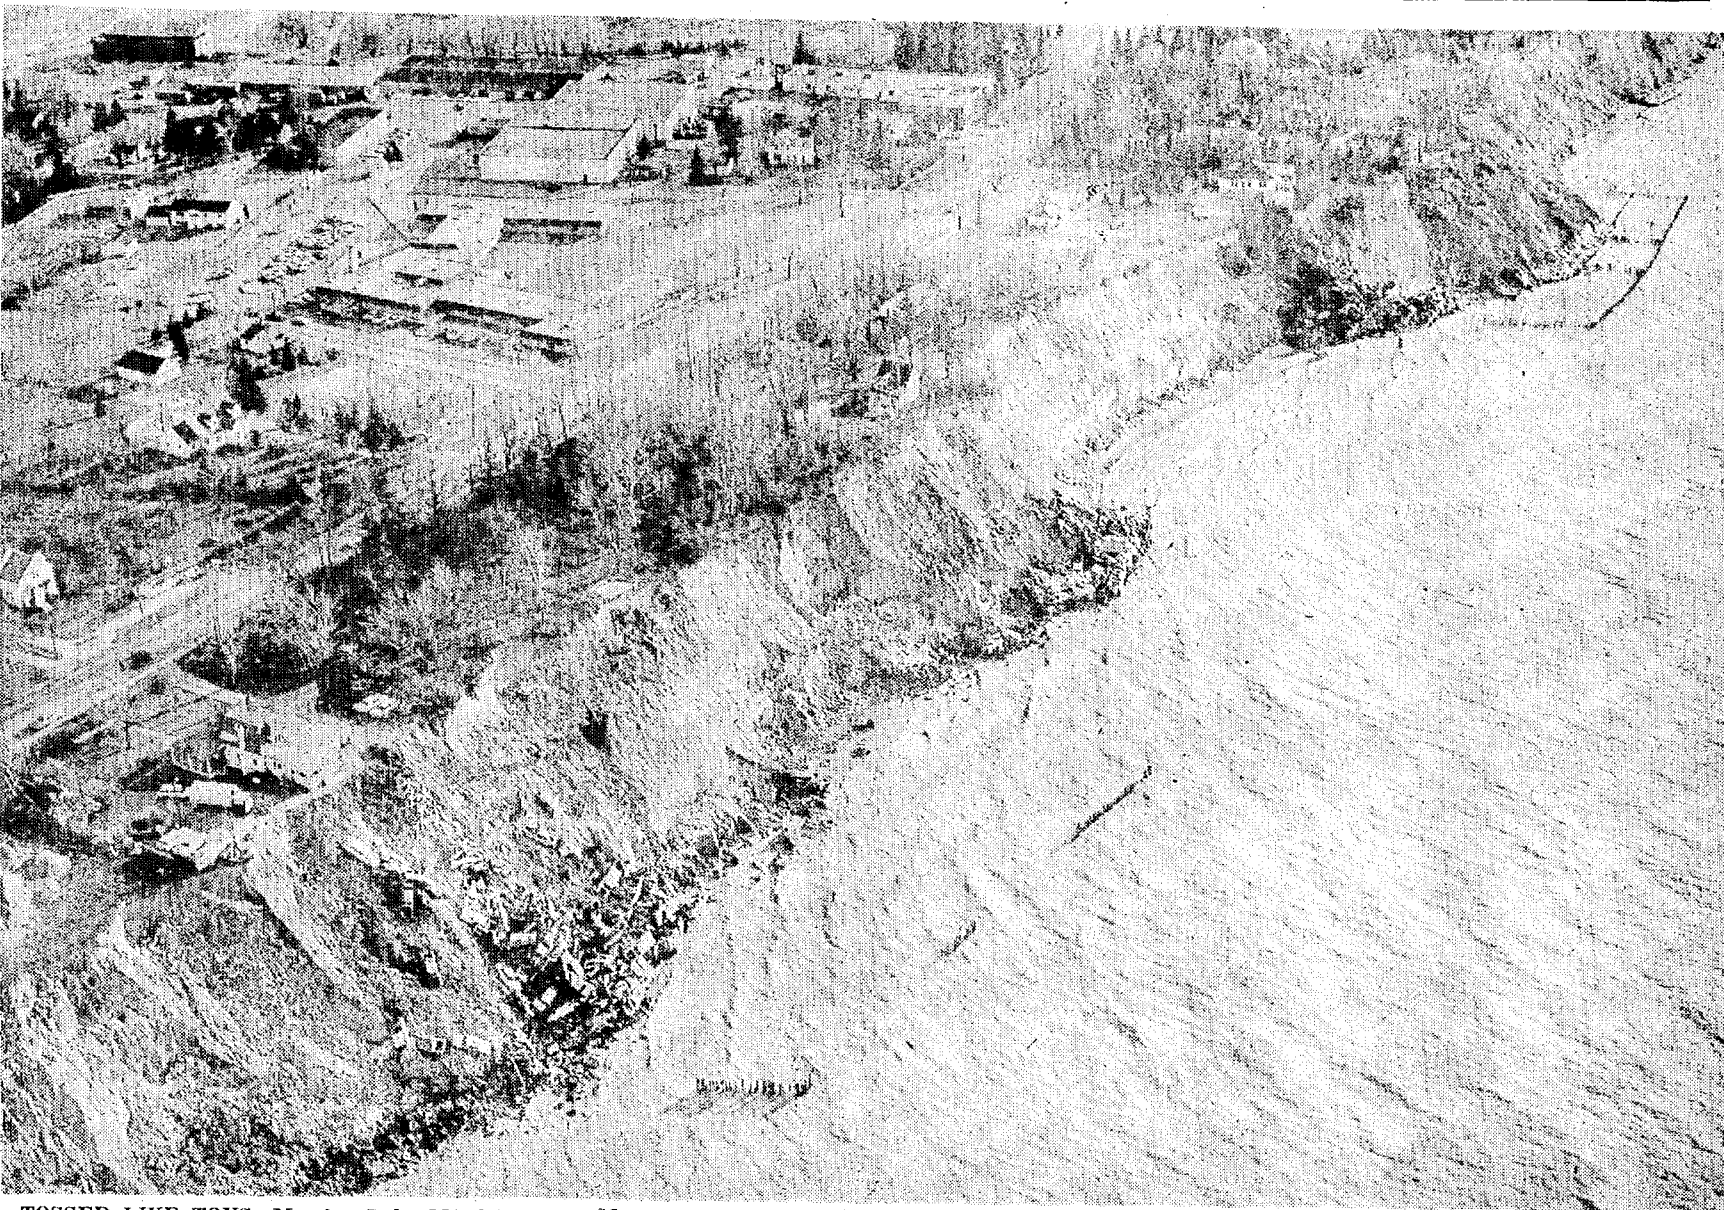

He said both Connecticut and Georgia already are exploring the use of "broadband communications" to allow people to talk by picturephone and transmit photocopies.

SCATTERED UNITS

He suggested businesses quit building skyscrapers and start scattering individual operations in unit away from urban areas.

"Telecommunications technology exists now to interconnect any business facility with sound and picture—in black and white or color—for individual conference use," he said. "We can transmit printed pages, documents, handwriting in single or multiple copies and have them

Firemen, Donkeys Aid Fund

THE HERALD-PRESS Good Fellow FUND

Herald-Press Good Fellow fund warmed up by $57.61 mostly because a bunch of guys whose main job is putting out fires got hot in a donkey baseball game.

The total now is $1,636.11 which means we have $1,863.89 to go to reach the $3,500 minimum goal. The generous contributions from so many Good Fellows the past few days put us ahead of last year's pace. On Dec. 15, 1969 we had $1,575.

Members of St. Joseph Fire Fighters Local 1670 of the International Association of Fire Fighters accepted the challenge to a donkey baseball game issued by Benton Harbor Fire Fighters last August and the result is a 19-11 victory for the St. Joseph crew and $25 for Good Fellows. It was a pretty hectic game. Donkey baseball at best is hard on the players. Many took such a jarring they couldn't sit down for a week.

In addition to the split of the gate the St. Joseph Fire fighters sweetened the Good Fellow fund by side bets like: "I'll get farther around the bases than you do," etc. etc.

The fire crews of the two cities may be friendly rivals on the baseball diamond but they fight fires shoulder to shoulder if the emergency arises.

WELCOME GIFTS

The $25 from the fire fighters leads off a list of welcome gifts. A. and I. Rowe popped into the office to leave $5 for the Good Fellows. Then Irene Hora honored the fund with a $5 gift in memory of her mother, Mrs. Antonette Seymour and son Lonnie Hora. She also wishes us the "best of luck in reaching your goal."

Twin City chapter No. 17, Disabled American Veterans, made their annual contribution of $10. Veterans groups have

Targets Carefully Selected

Ecology Law Not Used Frivolously

By LARRY KURTZ
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A small but wide-ranging array of lawsuits has been filed under a unique antipollution act which took effect in Michigan Oct. 1.

More suits are in the offing as conservation groups carefully choose their targets. Meanwhile, no decisions have been rendered under the new act and at least one challenge has been made to the constitutionality of the measure.

Knowledgeable observers say it is far too early to draw conclusions about the impact of the new law, hailed by conservationists and Gov. William Milliken as landmark legislation. But one fear of the bill's opponents — that courts would be swamped by an immediate flood of frivolous filings — has not materialized.

NO ONE'S EXEMPT

Basically, the law permits any persons or group to sue any other person or group to protect natural resources of the state from pollution. The filer does not even have to show personal loss. And not even the state is immune from prosecution. Officials of state agencies having responsibility over resources are expecting various challenges from conservation zealots who consider certain regulations too lenient.

Circuit courts can intervene directly when a lawsuit is filed, meaning a citizen or group does not have to settle for the administrative decisions of state agencies.

The new law took effect quietly after months of hot legislative debate. Suits filed under it scattered and have not attracted the same statewide attention as the bill did in its noisy trip through legislative halls.

Neither the governor's office, attorney general, state resources agencies nor conservation clubs have been keeping detailed tabs on suits filed under the new law. Michigan is a sprawling state with more than eight million residents and scores of circuit judges.

"We plan to make some assessments after the first of the year," says James Kellogg, an aide to Milliken.

A statewide check by The Associated Press turned up a relatively few cases, including these:

—On the day the new law became effective, the Wayne County Department of Health's air pollution control division charged Chrysler Corp., McLouth Steel Corp. and Edward C. Levy Co. with permitting pollution of the air.

Morton Sterling, director of the division, said the cases were filed as a test to see what action the courts would take. In its reply, Chrysler challenged the constitutionality of the law. The auto firm said the law violates both the U.S. and Michigan constitutions because the acts prohibited are phrased so vaguely that they violate due process of law. The company also says it represents an improper delegation of legislative power. No date has been set for court arguments.

—Another first-day suit was filed by State Rep. Robert Davis, R-St. Ignace, to stop the State Department of Natural Resources from issuing any oil and gas drilling permits in the

SALT 'BOMBER' CRASHES: Bangor Fire Chief Duane Goss and two of his firemen examine wreckage of crop duster John A. Robertson's plane which crashed Sunday morning on a road salting mission near Bangor. The plane carried 1,200 pounds of salt to be "dusted" over icy stretches of payment at intersections. Robertson said the tail of his plane clipped branches from a tree on a low pass near the intersection of county roads 687 and 378. It flipped the plane upside down into another tree—the one directly behind the plane's charred wreckage. Violence of the crash is evident from the condition in which it left the tree. The trunk measured 14 inches across where it was torn apart. Robertson worked for Mueller's crop dusting service, South Haven, and was on a job for the Van Buren road commission, sheriff's deputies said.

Wintry Political Guessing

A certain amateur, and, by preference, anonymous, political analyst thinks he perceives something significant going on. His thesis is based on indications that are at best tenuous, but it is of some interest in a slack political season.

The aforementioned amateur political analyst (APA) starts with the fact that Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington state was re-elected by a landslide which gave him 84 per cent of the vote. It is noted that this gave impetus to talk of Jackson as a potential Democratic presidential or vice presidential candidate. The GOP oriented Spokane Spokesman-Review, for example, observed that Jackson "is now in stronger position than he has ever been before" for a place on the ticket.

Our busy APA further notes other pertinent, as he sees it, circumstances and developments, some of which appear contradictory. He observes that should Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine capitalize on his front runner position and get the Democratic nod in 1972, having Jackson as a running mate would give him badly needed strength in the West. Then there is the report by a Los Angeles Times Washington correspondent John H.

Averill, that two of Jackson's southern colleagues, Senators Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina and Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, "have said they would like to see him head the 1972 ticket."

Bear in mind further (says the APA) that Jackson's is the Senate's most persistent advocate of a thing dear to the Administration's heart, the SST project. Then consider that, when Jackson recently proposed that the United States push for a month long holiday ceasefire in Vietnam, Secretary of State William Rogers telephoned him at once to say bravo and thanks for plugging something the State Department and the President strongly favored.

All this is put forward as adding up to a somewhat Machiavellian effort in Jackson's behalf. It does get a bit fuzzy when one ponders just why, except perhaps for his SST advocacy, the Administration should be patting him on the back. Maybe because it is thought he would be easier to beat than Muskie. But it's not hard to see why that amateur political analyst prefers not to have his name attached to his convoluted ruminations on this subject.

Irish Rebellion Reborn

To speak of Ireland to many Americans is to stir memories of movies and plays about the Troubles, of the "terrible beauty" of Easter 1916, and above all, of the cloth capped and trenchcoated gunmen of the I.R.A., the Irish Republican Army. Once again, as tension fills the Irish night and bombs explode, the talk is of the I.R.A.

The government of Premier Jack Lynch sought sweeping police powers including the right to intern citizens without trial on December 4, because of what it termed "a secret armed conspiracy against the state." Dublin police, it was announced, had uncovered a plot to kidnap prominent people, rob banks and murder leading officials.

Lynch's statement did not identify any of the organizations involved in the alleged plot, but it widely assumed in Dublin's pubs that the move was directed at the outlawed I.R.A. and a fanatic splinter group known as Saor Eire (Free Ireland). Their creed is the unification of all Ireland, by force necessary.

"The history of Ireland for more than a century past has been the history of the Irish Republican Army," Sean O'Casey, the playwright has written "The fighting force had always two divisions, those who carried bread in one hand and a gun in the other; and those who carried a gun in one hand and a lily in the other, the realist and the romantic."

The I.R.A. has its roots in the Fenian Brotherhood, a secret organization formed in the United States in the mid-19th century by Irish immigrants to free Ireland from British rule. An attempted invasion of Canada was beaten back in 1866 and the Fenians turned attention to their desolate homeland. A rising the following year crushed by the British, and became a memory kept alive by the poets.

To the Irish rebels, England's danger was Ireland's opportunity. With Britain involved in World War I, a force of some 1,200 Irish Volunteers seized the General Post Office in central Dublin on Easter Monday, April 24, 1916, and proclaimed a republic. For a week they held out under heavy shelling that killed and wounded about 3,000 people and left the heart of the capital in ruins. Many of the leaders not killed in the fighting were later executed.

During the confused period that followed, the I.R.A. was formed as guerrilla force to combat the terrorist activities of the Black and Tans, a mercenary force aimed at preventing the establishment of an independent Ireland. Civil war flared in 1922 and the I.R.A. refused to accept a partition that created a free state of the 26 southern counties but left the six northern counties under British rule.

Peace finally came in 1926, but I.R.A. did not give up the struggle for a unified Ireland. Some members flirted with the Nazis while about 40 others fought for the Republicans in Spain. They marched into battle shouting: "Up the Republic!" The I.R.A. became the model for nationalist terror gangs in the Middle East Latin America and in Quebec.

Bombings and border raids led outlawing of the organization in 1939. In the 1950s, many of its leaders were interned in the camps that are again being prepared. The bitter struggle between Catholic and Protestant in Northern Ireland has given new life to the I.R.A. But of its embittered members now support Marxist revolution as well as a forcible end to the partition Ireland.

Season Of Good Will

GLANCING BACKWARDS

ST. JOE EDGES
PORTAGE

St. Joseph coach George Gaender shuffled the deck and dealt himself a winner the hard way.

The Bears, down 21 points at the half, rallied for a 69-68 Big Six victory over the Portage Central Mustangs that will go down in St. Joseph basketball history as one of the school's greatest comeback efforts.

TWO NEW BUILDINGS

Two new professional buildings for the Old Orchard Shopping Center were approved by the St. Joseph city commission last night.

Dr. C. K. Johnson, a dentist in St. Joseph for 26 years, will build a medical and dental building on Comings avenue near Niles avenue as soon as weather permits. The building will have two floors, each with 1,800 square feet. No contractor has been named.

DEFENSE WORK
SPEED NEEDED

The results of America's defense drive to date are "not satisfactory enough to warrant hopes that everything is all well." That is the estimate of William S. Knudsen, production chief of the national defense advisory commission.

Knudsen sized up the situation last night in a blunt speech before the national association of manufacturers — the producers he termed "the front line of defense." He spoke frankly, said he was not trying "to paint the lily" admitted that aircraft output is 30 per cent below forecasts.

QUARANTINE ORDERED

Real Christmas Spirit
Fulfilled By BH Family

EDITOR'S NOTE: A Benton Harbor resident believes he and his wife learned last year an ideal way for fulfilling the spirit of Christmas. He sent a letter to the Berrien County Council of Churches and suggested that if the letter were published, others might choose to celebrate the birth of Christ in the same manner. But he didn't want his name published with the letter for the reason some might think he's tooting his own horn. Mrs.

William Ohmann, chairman of the Church Council's "Family to Family" subcommittee, forwarded the letter to this newspaper. The writer, who shall remain anonymous, has a good idea for giving and getting the most from the Holy Holiday.

With the holiday season upon us I felt motivated to relate a family experience from last year. As Christmas approached, my wife and I became very aware of how fortunate we are: Two healthy and wonderful children, our own good health and well being, etc. Our thoughts turned to less fortunate children that would have little, if any, Christmas holiday. With all the fanfare that precedes Christmas, it is sad to think of children that find it no different from any other day of the year.

After making several phone calls to the Bureau of Social Services, we made arrangements to entertain four underprivileged children, two boys and two girls, on Christmas day. When making the arrangements to entertain these children we set two prerequisites: 1) that the children selected be those who would not otherwise have much of a holiday and 2) that their ages be near that of our children.

On Christmas day I brought the children into our home around ten o'clock for a brunch type meal. My wife made red Christmas stockings for each of the kids. The stockings were filled with fruit, nuts and miscellaneous small gifts. With the cooperation of the case worker we were aware of the children's basic needs (and sizes): pants, underwear, shoes, etc. Gifts of this nature were given to the children. In addition we gave each of the children one large gift — dolls for the girls and Lincoln Logs and a race car set for the boys.

It is difficult to express in writing how these kids reacted to the gifts and kindness they received; their faces beamed with happiness and warmth throughout the day. It is interesting to note that they expressed the same joy and enthusiasm toward the small gifts, a small box of crayons, coloring book, doll outfits and the like, as they did for the larger toy they received. Actually each little gift was treated as a real treasure.

Toward mid-afternoon we had dinner with the kids and then returned them to their homes around five o'clock. We received a great deal of personal satisfaction from this experience; words can't describe the happiness we saw in the faces of those children. We certainly felt that our efforts were well rewarded.

I can't help but feel that other families in this area might be interested in entertaining some underprivileged children on Christmas day. It seems to me that many families find they are childless at Christmas time because of geographic separation from their own children. It is also possible that parents of one or two children might enjoy treating some less fortunate kids to some of the happiness that their children experience at Christmas time.

TIME TO STOP SMOKING

Dear Smokers of America: There comes a time in your precious life when you should just be yourself, cease from following the childish habits of the crowd, and break away from the harmful and sometimes fatal ways of the world. It comes time for your strong and intelligent mind and body to stop allowing puny little objects to control your life.

There also comes a time to cut down on ever growing expenses, which hurts most of us. You could certainly benefit from this in two ways.

One would be lower priced doctor bills. The other would be the money that you could put in the bank instead of spending it on your habit, which would be $145.60 a year if you smoked a pack a day.

It's time to stop setting hypocritical examples to the ones who depend on you to show them right from wrong. There comes a time when you should stop showing certain manufacturing companies how gullible you are to their silly and idiotic advertisements.

It's time to stop adding to the harmful air pollution that is striking our country tremendously.

It's time to give your throat and bronchial tubes a rest from the intermittent coughing and hacking.

What it all adds up to is that it's time to stop smoking!

Sincerely,
STEPHEN WALKER,
812 Harrison Ave.,
St. Joseph.

..And Speaking
Of Your Health

Because I have never had an injection of penicillin, I don't know if I am allergic to it. A friend of mine recently had a bad experience when she was given penicillin for the first time.

Is there any way of finding out in advance if penicillin can be taken safely?

Miss R. T.,
Md.
Dear Miss T.: Unfavorable reactions to penicillin, other antibiotics, and all kinds of drugs sometimes do occur. For this reason, doctors warn patients to stop taking any new drug as soon as there is any unusual response.

When once a person has had a severe reaction from any drug it is important for his doctor to know about it. To protect the patient, charts in hospitals and doctors' offices carry a label indicating all known allergies.

For years, however, doctors have been seeking some rapid test by which such allergies could be established, so that severe reactions could be avoided.

Only recently a new test has been devised by Dr. Bernard B. Levine of the New York University Medical School. Preliminary studies seem to affirm its reliability.

Perhaps this method may serve to warn patients and doctors of a highly allergic penicillin reaction.

Since children seem to injure their heads so frequently when they fall, how can parents be sure that the injury doesn't cause a brain concussion?

Mr. and Mrs. H. N., Tenn.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. N.: Judgment about the severity of an injury cannot be the responsibility of a parent.

The doctor should be notified if there is even a momentary period of loss of consciousness. This is an excellent guide to safety.

The doctor, of course, has other ways of deciding if an injury is serious or deserves particular observation. Severe headache, nausea and vomiting are some of the signs that alert the physician to the possibility of a concussion.

A concussion is an injury to the brain. It is remarkable how well protected and hardy the brain is. Unless any unusual signs occur, one can conclude that there is little or no possibility that ordinary injury has caused a concussion.

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

There is much to be said in favor of entering the bidding on high values when the opponents are known to have a marked preponderance of the high cards. For example, consider this deal played in the match between Great Britain and North America in the 1962 world championship.

When the British pair, Rose and Gardner, held the North-South cards the bidding went as shown. Two clubs was artificial and forcing to game. Mathe came in with two diamonds on his high-card points, basing the vulnerable overall on his five probable taking tricks and knowing full well that his partner would not take the bid very seriously.

Von Der Porten cooperated beautifully by jumping to four diamonds and now the British pair had to try to find their best spot with very little room left for maneuvering. They stopped at four spades (and made five), very luckily not reaching six spades — since that contract would have gone down with normal play, even though the odds in favor of making six spades were roughly 5 to 1.

When the American pair, Murray and Coon, held the North-South cards, they bid the hand well and arrived at the excellent contract of six clubs — without interference by the British East-West pair. Their bidding went:

South West North East
2♣ Pass 2♦ Pass
2♥ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♠ Pass 4♠ Pass
4NT Pass 5♣ Pass

West led the K-Q of diamonds and Coon cashed twelve easy tricks to bring the American team a gain of 720 points on the deal.

Actress Lee Remick has made a movie career out of her effortless portrayal of "innocent sensuality" as one critic described her screen work. Others have tabbed her as "America's answer to Brigitte Bardot."

Originally she wanted to become a ballerina, but changed her mind and decided early in life to become an actress.

She began her stage career in summer stock at 16 and "crashed" the movies in a minor role in the film "A Face in the Crowd" in 1957. She was hailed as star material and followed it up with such films as "Anatomy of a Murder," "Wild River" and "Saneclunary," all of which were highly acclaimed.

For her portrayal of an alcoholic in "Days of Wine and Roses," she received an Oscar nomination. In 1966 she appeared on Broadway in the challeng-

She was born in Boston in 1925. Her father is the owner of a department store in Quincy, Mass.

She has appeared on Broadway in musicals — "Anyone Can Whistle" — and is known for her ability to project "inner calm."

Protest Causes BHHS Shutdown

Students Stage Sit-In

Classes were dismissed at Benton Harbor high school this morning after some 200 students staged a sit-in and refused to go to classes. No violence was reported.

Supt. Mark E. Lewis announced the decision to call off classes for the rest of the day shortly after 9 a.m. Racial tension gripped the school last week with several incidents between blacks and whites reported, including a scuffle Friday in a parking lot off school property.

Today's demonstration began about 7 a.m. just after school opened. Lewis said a group of students began a sit-in outside the principal's office. Certain verbal demands were made which Lewis declined to divulge until they were put in writing.

The demonstrators, virtually all black, remained outside the office for about an hour then went to the auditorium at request of Principal David Harbenbach. They spurned requests to go to classes and remained in the auditorium after it was announced that the school was closing for the day.

Lewis said parents of students remaining in the auditorium would be called to pick them up. If this did not remove them, police action would be taken, he said.

By 10:30 an estimated 20 to 30 parents had arrived at the school, but dissident students remained in the auditorium and there was no indication how long they would be there.

One demand heard voiced in the auditorium was for the hiring of more black teachers and counselors with students having a part in interviewing and hiring.

Lewis had said earlier: "It's impossible to fulfill these demands. We don't have the legal authority." He added that the nature of the demands indicated students had been talking to adults.

There was no announcement late this morning if the high school would operate tomorrow. Senior high is on double sessions with juniors and seniors attending in the morning, freshmen and sophomores in the afternoon. Total enrollment is 2,700, of whom 48 per cent are black.

Last week's tension apparently was triggered by an altercation at a basketball game Dec. 4 between a white and black student.

Several alleged assaults were reported during the week.

Six male youths were arrested Friday, five of them black, in various incidents. The home basketball game with Kalamazoo Central was postponed from Friday until Jan. 12.

DINNER - MEETING HELD

Teachers Credit Union Increases Dividend

An increase from 5.25 to 5.5 per cent has been approved by the board of directors of the Berrien Teachers Credit Union, St. Joseph, on semi-annual dividends on share savings, according to Franklin Jackson, treasurer-manager.

The increase will benefit the credit union's 2,700 members with nearly $40,000 in dividends, he said.

The deposit program for the first six months of 1971 will yield a dividend of six per cent quarterly on a minimum and multiples of $10. Deposit investors are required to have a minimum of $2,000 in their share account. Deposit balance of the credit union now totals $800,000, according to Jackson.

At its annual dinner-meeting held Saturday night at Franky's Restaurant, Niles, the board also voted a 12.5 per cent interest refund to borrowers for the year 1970. This will benefit 1,450 borrowers with over $30,000 in refunds.

STREAMERS IN SKY

Northern Lights Put On Final Performance

Police in the Twin Cities area received several telephone calls early today about some streamers of light seen in the sky.

One of the departments referred a caller to the Berrien sheriff's department, where a science teacher moonlights as a radio dispatcher.

The midnight master, Albert Steffens, explained the luminous phenomenon as the northern lights of the Aurora borealis. Steffens teaches science and English at Hartford.

The lights were observed about 2 a.m. and could be seen in this area for about one half hour. Northern lights seen this far south are a rare phenomenon.

The size of the seed has no bearing on the size of the tree that will grow from it. The tallest tree in the world, the California redwood, grows from a very small seed.

Rev. Victorson St. Joseph Minister Takes Job In Illinois

Rev. Frans A. Victorson stunned parishioners of Saron Lutheran church, St. Joseph, with his surprise announcement Sunday he was resigning, as pastor, after 20 years here.

Rev. Victorson will become National Lutheran Scout executive with headquarters in Oakbrook, Ill. He will assume his new position Feb. 15.

The announcement was made at services Sunday. Rev. Victorson had submitted his resignation Saturday evening to the board of directors of his church.

The decision to take the national scout position was a difficult one to make, Rev. Victorson said. He has close ties with his parish here, he said.

Rev. Victorson, 56, came to Saron Lutheran Dec. 1, 1950 from Grace Lutheran, Des Moines, Iowa.

MAIN INTERESTS

He has been active in a number of twin city and Berrien county organizations but his main interests were in his parish and scouting.

He was president of Berrien county Council of Churches 1961-63 and served on the executive board from 1950 to 1957. He was president of the Southwestern Council, Boy Scouts of America from 1960 to 1965 and it was during his term as president that the council's present service center on Niles avenue was constructed. He was council chaplain from 1952 to 1960.

In 1963 he traveled to Norway, Sweden and Finland to present the honorary Gold Lamb award of the Lutheran church to the heads of the three Scandinavian countries.

A native of Pasadena, California, he went with his father to Aurora, Ill., at the age of nine months. He graduated from Augustana college in 1936 and was ordained in June, 1940 at Rock Island, Ill.

BH Group Sponsors Yule Party

The West Central Neighborhood Organization (WCNO) of Benton Harbor held a Christmas party Saturday for 175 children at Lake Michigan Catholic middle school.

The event featured film cartoons, Santa Claus, refreshments and singing of carols.

It was the third in a monthly series of cartoon shows sponsored by WCNO. Invitations are issued to children through the sixth grade with cooperation of area schools. Lake Michigan Catholic donates use of its cafeteria and projection equipment. Harold Hansen, newly elected president of WCNO, said the shows have been so successful that activities for junior high age students are being planned.

In charge of Saturday's event were Mrs. Glenn Knight, vice president of WCNO; Mrs. A. J. Lynch and Mrs. R. Jeffers. Sister Joseph Damian of Lake Michigan Catholic obtained the films.

PASSENGER INJURED: Passenger in car at right received a fractured neck when the car was involved in a three-vehicle accident Sunday at Empire and Salem avenues, Benton Harbor. Mrs. Joann Smith, 27, of 396 Ohio street, Benton Harbor, was listed in serious condition at Benton Harbor Mercy hospital this morning. She was riding with her husband, Edward, 33, when their car was struck by another car (not shown) causing the Volkswagen to spin around into the path of an oncoming car. Benton Harbor police said Smith had stopped to make a left turn into a driveway when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Mary C. Nower, 16, of 1437 West Glenford road, St. Joseph. Smith's car then hit car driven by Truesilla Jones, 51, of 776 Territorial road. Miss Nower was issued a summons for failure to stop in an assured clear distance. (Staff photo)

'Operation Gratitude' Planned By Firemen

Three Twin City locals of International Association of Fire Fighters will participate in "Operation Gratitude" Tuesday to show support for law enforcement officers and fire fighters.

Richard Hanner, secretary of Benton township local 1562 IAFF, said the National Committee for Responsible Patriotism urges the following activities throughout the United States:

Fly the U.S. flag, drive with headlights on during daylight hours, ring church bells for five minutes from 11:55 a.m. to noon followed by a moment of silence, display fire apparatus and toll bells at noon.

Charles W. Wilcy, executive director of the National Committee for Responsible Patriotism, headquartered in New York, said:

"Strong public support of law enforcement officials and fire fighters, civilization's first line of defense, is essential if our great nation is to continue moving forward. When these symbols of an orderly society are the targets of terrorist attacks, every man, woman and child is in danger."

This Area Is Bad Place To Be Born

Tri-County Ranks Last In Child Health

A committee has been set up to determine why Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties rank worst in the state in maternal and child health.

A statistical average of five aspects of maternal and child health puts the tri-county area below all other areas in the state. These aspects are per capita fetal deaths, infant deaths, perinatal deaths, illegitimate live births and premature live births.

The disclosure was made recently at the annual meeting of the Southwestern Michigan Comprehensive Health Planning association held at the Holiday Inn, Benton township.

Dr. Richard Elghammer of St. Joseph, who heads the study committee, said the mortality data, obtained from the Michigan Department of Public Health, was responsible for the decision to begin a study of the reasons for the counties' high rank. He said his committee would define the problem and recommend ways to reverse the figures.

POOR SHOWING

Among 14 regions in the state, the tri-county area made a poor showing in each of the five categories. It ranked second, per capita, in fetal deaths, perinatal deaths, illegitimate live births and premature live births, falling to third place in infant deaths.

Within the tri-county area, Van Buren ranks poorest. It was followed next by Berrien and Cass.

The findings are based on 1968 statistics. In that year, fetal deaths alone claimed 74 lives in the three counties and infant deaths totaled 114. There were 114 perinatal deaths, or deaths occurring just before or just after birth. There were 482 illegitimate live births and 412 premature live births.

A breakdown of the tri-county statistics between urban and rural areas shows that major health problems are not confined to the larger population centers. Less than 50 per cent of fetal deaths in Berrien county, for example, occurred in urban areas. The same is true of Van Buren and Cass counties.

The statistics are included in initial findings of the Southwestern Michigan Comprehensive Health Planning association in cooperation with the Primary Care Study and the Berrien County Health department.

According to Dr. Robert P. Lacey, technical consultant for the planning association, they are presented without conclusions or recommendations as a "stimulus to analyze and improve our health service resources."

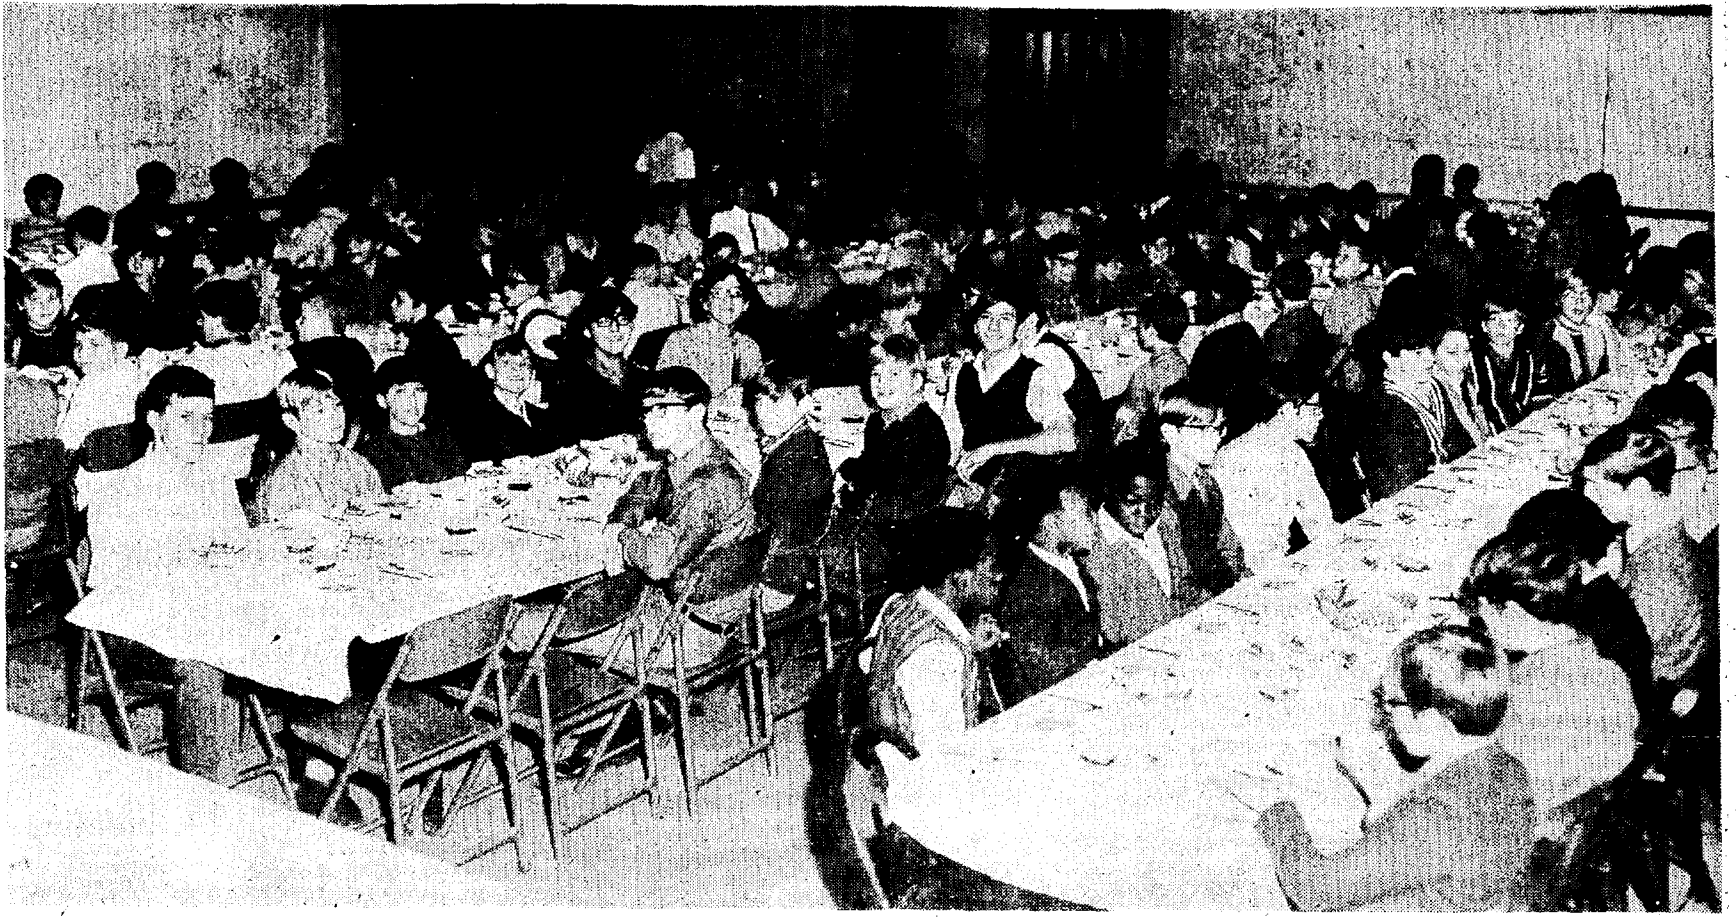

Statistics gathered by the planning association show that the "three-county area does not compare favorably with the state or nation in terms of number of health professionals available to the people."

DOCTOR SHORTAGE

At present there is only one physician, either medical doctor or osteopath, for each 1,560 persons in the three counties. There are no comparable data for the state and nation for 1970.

Statistics for 1967, however, point to a local shortage. In that year, there were 66 medical doctors per 100,000 residents of Berrien county, compared with the state average of 124 and the national average of 145. In Cass county there were 23 doctors per 100,000 persons and in Van Buren county, 42.

Records show that some progress has been made in our area since 1963 in improving the ratio of medical doctors to population. This is especially true of Berrien and Van Buren counties though Cass appears at a standstill.

TURKEY TIME: About 225 carriers for the Twin Cities' sisters newspapers, The News-Palladium and The Herald-Press, prepare for turkey dinner Sunday, gan college. Christmas treat also included gift for each carrier.

New Buffalo Decision Near

By RUTH KELSEY

New Buffalo Correspondent
NEW BUFFALO — The fate of the proposed $9,600,000 condominium housing project in New Buffalo will be decided at a special election Tuesday.

Concern over the rezoning of the 28.9 acres of land in Sunset Shores owned by Jerry Pals, South Holland, Ill., began last spring. Pals asked the city council to rezone the property from single family dwelling to multiple family dwellings.

A group of Sunset Shores residents opposing the change obtained a restraining order to stop Pals from starting work on the project after the city council approved the rezoning to multiple dwellings. They also presented a petition with 525 signatures opposing the rezoning.

Another group of city residents then presented a petition with over 600 signatures favoring the rezoning. The concerned citizens opposing the condominium then petitioned for a referendum election.

Some of the questions concerning the condominium have been answered by Pals as follows: There will be 80 one-bedroom units selling for $23,900 for a total valuation of $1,912,000; 230 two-bedroom units selling for $25,900 for a total valuation of $5,959,000; and 43 three-bedroom units selling for $31,900 for a total valuation of $1,371,600.

Swimming pool, recreation building, tennis courts and other common grounds and facilities with a composite valuation of $450,000 are planned, for a valuation of $9,600,000 for the entire project.

Pals said the construction will be brick and masonry, and will be fireproof. Fire protection will consist of booster pumps with standpipe hydrant outlets on every floor.

Pals stated to those concerned over the ecology of the land that in a single family residential subdivision, such as Sunset Shores, all the original natural plant life and most of the tree life has been completely destroyed and replaced with homes, streets, driveways and landscaping.

The condominium project will disturb only 27 per cent of the natural plant and tree life that is presently on this site, he said.

Pals stated that the project will waive all beach rights that they may have applied to the common beach area in Sunset Shores, another concern of the people opposing the project. The remainder of the beach is private beach, he said.

Pals said that the proposed development will allow Water street to be dedicated through this property, crossing the Penn Central railroad into a parcel they have purchased on US-12 just northeast of the old railroad right-of-way weigh station site.

CROSSING GUARD
Pals stated that in May of 1970 he personally contacted the office engineer for the Penn Central railroad in Jackson, and was advised that subject to the approval of the Michigan Public Service Commission a guarded railroad crossing would be allowed between the project sites. Pals said he has further agreed to pay the cost of this crossing which is estimated to cost $25,000 plus road paving expenses.

Pals' told the city he will pay for all sewer extension lines needed from the present treatment plant to their property at no cost to the city, and will extend the water service from the nearest point of connection to their property at no cost to the city.

He said they are prepared to esrow the monies needed for these installations before any building permit is issued to them.

Miss Joan Weishaup, New Buffalo city clerk, said that the polls at the city hall will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 15 for the special election.

Cassopolis Man Killed In Crash

Three Others Are Injured

CASSOPOLIS — A Cassopolis man was injured fatally Sunday afternoon and three others were hurt — two critically — in a head-on auto crash on M-62 about two and a half miles north of here.

Jack Howard Dorn, 63, of 217 O'Keefe street, died during the night in Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac. His death was the 20th resulting from highway accidents in Cass county this year. Twenty-nine died on county roads last year.

Listed in guarded condition at Lee Memorial are both drivers in the two-car crash.

They are Gilbert C. Huffman, 68, also Cassopolis and Jerry Leroy Mosier, 41, Dowagiac. Both are confined at the hospital's intensive care unit.

Mosier's son, Dennis Jerry, 14, is listed in fair condition by hospital officials at Lee Memorial. Officers said the boy received a fractured arm and facial cuts when a front wheel of the pickup truck he was riding in was jammed up through the floorboards.

The crash was investigated by Cass county sheriff's deputies, who said they were unable to question any of the persons involved. Officers theorized that both cars swerved left for some reason in an effort to avoid a collision. Deputies said there were no skid marks, and that the point of impact was near the centerline.

ON STRAIGHT ROAD
Deputies said Huffman's car was southbound on the road, while Mosier was driving his pickup truck north. Officers said the crash occurred on a straight stretch of road at about 2:52 p.m.

Investigators gave no reason for the collision. The investigation is to continue.

The body is at Connelly funeral home, Cassopolis. Funeral details are incomplete.

ROCKIN' TO A RECORD: Phil Grant, 21-year-old graduate student at Michigan State university, started rocking in East Lansing at 9:30 p.m. Dec. 10 and over the weekend moved his base of operations to a spot in front of the St. Joseph Fire department. He passed the 84th hour this morning. In order not to miss a stroke he rocked in back of a pickup truck in the two-hour trip here Sunday. He chose the fire department because firemen, too back the drive for funds for muscular dystrophy. This is the third time Grant's Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity has staged the rock-a-thon. In June 1969 Grant broke the previous record by an hour when he rocked 104 hours. In September, 1969 Grant and another fraternity brother rocked 120 hours and that is the record he's trying to break now. Among the 13 rockers who started was Gary Hathcoat of Berrien Springs, a Lake Michigan college freshman, who rocked 65 hours before he had to quit because of illness. Robert Hickman, president of the Southwest Michigan chapter and L.L. Sylvester Sands of the St. Joseph Fire department, give Grant encouragement. (Staff photo)

Hartford Twp. OK's Mobile Home Park

No Objections Are Heard

HARTFORD — The Hartford township board gave tentative approval Saturday to development of a 20-lot mobile home park on county road 687.

Todd Efting, project developer, said he plans on opening the park early next year after receiving final approval from the state. It will be named the Viking River mobile home park. Efting told the board that the plan had already been approved by the township zoning board and that no objections had been raised, to his knowledge, by area residents.

Board approval was made conditional on approval of the project by county and state agencies.

CONSTABLES NAMED

In other areas, the board named James Walker and Cecil Wright as the township's constables for the two-year terms which began Nov. 20. The appointments came from Supervisor Gerald Coon said only two constables were to have been elected in the Nov. 3 balloting instead of four, as originally planned.

Coon said the situation resulted because, by state law, the board did not formally designate the number to be elected before the balloting. Walker and Wright were the top vote getters among five seeking the four positions which appeared on the November ballot. Walker received 293 votes and Wright, 291.

The other candidates and their votes were Duane McGuire, 275; Robert Muth, 271; and Justus Mayhak, 258.

A $26,149 budget for 1971 to operate the combined township-city fire department was taken under study. It was submitted by Fire Chief Harold Walker Jr., and was up $100 over the present budget. The township, under the combined program, pays 50 per cent of operating costs which amount to about $10,500 yearly.

A legal ruling on provisions governing operations of junk yards was to be sought after Elwood Jones, a township resident, said he had seen what he believed were violations at 11 different locations in the township.

Trustee H.J. Meachum, in responding to another question raised by Jones, said he would have a man present at the next township meeting to review the township's refuse landfill system.

The township had been sharing a dump with the city until the dump was ordered closed earlier this year by health officials. Township refuse is now taken to a dump outside the township.

BONUSES APPROVED

The board approved bonuses of $20-$30 for township employees and, also, approved purchase of a new typewriter and two filing cabinets for township use.

Meeting as the township's board of health after the regular session, the board agreed to take over the billing, grave openings, and lot sales from George Fleming, operator of the Calvin funeral home in Hartford.

Fleming said he had been handling the work in addition to his own work and asked the board assume the duties by Jan. 1.

Two Arrested

NILES —State police of the Niles post said they arrested two Niles men Sunday afternoon on gun charges.

Troopers said they charged Tom Salisbury, 23, with transporting loaded firearms in his auto, and charged James Marston, 23, with possessing an unlicensed pistol.

Both posted $100 against their appearance in fifth district court, here, today.
